

Cotswold School Room 7 pupils Renee O'Halloran (from left), 10, Samuel Hughes, 11, and Sam Seong, 10, papier mache clocks, while Rachael Luck, 9, from Room 6 cuts out fabric to create her puppet.

PHOTO: GEOFF SLOAN

The art of construction

Performing puppets and clicking clocks are being created by the Room 5 and 6 children at Cotswold School.

The students have already made pipe-cleaner puppets and are now sewing clothes to attach to the papier-mached light bulb heads they made last term. They also plan to make sock puppets.

Making the puppets has been part of a fabric and fibre art unit, linking in with a school visit from a puppeteer.

The creation of clocks is part of an art unit on construction.

