

Inspiration turned into art

Bright colourful flowers in the style of well-known New Zealand artists Jane Evans and Gretchen Albrecht spring to life in paintings by these youngsters in Room 3 at Cotswold School.

The paintings of the two artists have inspired the school to copy their efforts. School pupils have been engaged in a painting unit looking at the work of Evans and Albrecht, and creating artworks of their own in the distinctive styles of those women artists.

The youngsters have used paint, dye, pastels and a glue and paint mix to produce their own colourful works.
